

GIANTS

Giants are an ancient species that diverged from other humanoids at the dawn of history. Marked by their massive proportions, harsh tempers, long lifespans, and immense strength, Giants are in all other aspects diverse. Their many lineages all exhibit unique histories and cultures.

Whether they are terrorizing country roads, studying in limestone towers that pierce the clouds, or seeking glory against titanic beasts beneath the earth, you'd best hope you pass beneath their notice. Dealing with Giants is a risk rarely worth taking.

HILL GIANT LVL 10, HUGE

8 120

Clumsy. Always attacks with disadvantage.

- Clobber (2x). 1d6+15. On hit: Prone. OR:
- Stomp. (Prone Creature) 1d6+40. OR:
- Punt. 1d12+10. On hit: Knockback Primary Die spaces, landing Prone.

The smallest of giantkin; foul-tempered, petty, and deeply insecure about appearing foolish. Found commonly roaming the countryside, devouring livestock, and acting as hired muscle for Goblins, Bandits, and especially Gnolls.

 Punt Ranged heroes away to safety. Play into their stupidity, attack suboptimal targets (whichever is making the most noise, whichever hurt him last).

 Use Punt to separate heroes and kick them toward allies.

HILL GIANT QUEST HOOKS

Big Trouble. A Hill Giant visits the heroes' camp, but not looking for a fight. The Giant's partner has been convinced to help some Gnolls raid a small hamlet nearby. But why should he serve the Gnolls, when he is so much bigger? If you can convince him to betray the Gnolls, you can clear their den together, protect the hamlet, and split the spoils.

HILL GIANT LOOT

A whole sheep, a rusty sword (used as a toothpick), a bear pelt wineskin, a large stone carved with a lucky rune, a wheel of cheese, a wooden goblin toy (to scale).

Note. Giant loot poses a unique challenge for regular-sized heroes. A coin-purse recovered from a Giant weighs more than a sack of grain. Giant coins are smelted from less-precious alloys, so their value is less than proportional to their size. Giant equipment, such as tools, weapons and armor are usually impossibly heavy to transport, let alone wield.

Artist: Nguyen Hieu

CLOUD GIANT LVL 14, HUGE

8 190

Mystical Aura. (1/round. Reaction: when a creature is targeted) Choose another one to be likewise affected (ie: damage, healing, or other positive/negative effect).

Pawn in My Domain. Move another creature 6; their next attack damage is either doubled or halved (your choice). Then choose 1:

- Windshear. (Range 8) 1d12+20 and summon a cyclone minion: (1d12) on hit: move 1 space.
- Rupture Lungs. (AoE, Reach 1) 1d12+20 (ignores armor).

Bloodied: Cloudform. At 95 HP, turn into a misty cloud and reform up to 8 spaces away. Steal the breath of all you pass through, Dazing them.

Sequestered in their cities of ornate cloud-piercing spires, they are among the greatest mages and scholars of any age with reputations for decadence and superiority over others they deem barbaric.

Cloud Giants use their magic to create and bind Elementals of air and water, Sylphs, and Naiads, and train enormous Rocs as their flying mounts.

Move an ally that has already attacked, or a ranged hero. Wait to attack with cyclone minions until the next round.

Throw heroes out a window, off a ledge, or into range for a big AoE with Pawn in My Domain. Or boost an ally, moving them into a critical backline position for a powerful attack.

CLOUD GIANT QUEST: DOWNFALL

Downfall. An ancient flying bastion of the Cloud Giants' has fallen to the earth. Nobody knows why the Giants abandoned it, but the ancient magics they left behind have attracted countless monsters and treasure hunters already... and deep within the white marble palace, a monster has taken roost over the royal vault.

FIRE GIANT QUEST HOOKS

The Decennial Hunt. Once a decade, in times of peace, Fire Giants from near and far gather at the Fire King's Iron Citadel for a contest. The hunter that slays the most dangerous beast of the cavern-ways is promised their choice of priceless treasures from the Fire King's hoard.

FIRE GIANT LVL 15, HUGE H 120 8

Cinder Armor. Vulnerable to Ice. When crit or dealt Ice damage: (AoE, Reach 2) 1d20 fire damage & Blind 1 round.

Deep Burn. Roll with advantage against targets that have taken fire damage this round. Choose twice:

- Flamestrike. (Reach 16) 1d20+10 damage. +1d20 if beyond Reach 8.
- Molten Hammer. (Cone 3) 1d20+10.

Bloodied: Meltdown. (Reaction: at 60 HP, Reach 8) 1d20 fire damage to all enemies.

Under the greatest mountains reside the strongholds and factories of the Fire Giants. Proud and eager for glorious battle, the frequent campaigns the Fire Giants wage keep the titanic monsters beneath the earth at bay. When their colossal machines of war turn towards the surface, however, the results are inevitably catastrophic.

They subjugate Bullettes and Umber Hulks to mine their ore, as well as Fire Elementals and Salamanders to power their subterranean factories to build massive weapons of war.

Spread damage out to use Deep Burn as little as possible. Flamestrike nearby heroes.

Focus fire heroes to increase damage, use Molten Hammer on groups of heroes hoping to Interpose for one another. Remember, advantage from Blind & Deep Burn stack!

STORM GIANT LVL 19, HUGE

8 290

Mighty Strikes. Treat dice you roll less than 10, as 10.

- Thunderstride. 2d20 damage to any enemies within Reach 2 of your movement this round. OR:
- Lightning Spear. (Reach 8) 2d20+30. Deal Primary Die damage to the next nearest enemy.

Bloodied: Forked Lightning. (Reaction: at 145 HP) 4d20 divided as you wish among up to 4 different creatures, on damage Dazed.

The mightiest of all giantkin, they are physically and magically formidable and are driven by an inexplicable wanderlust. Their thirst for adventure often leads them to compete with heroes for treasure and glory. Legendary are the great ships of the Storm Giant—impossible in scale, and always commanding a tailwind.

They are known to tame Stormdrakes, sea creatures, as well as elementals of all types. Less honorable Stormgiants often ally with Pirates and mercenaries and command entire fleets.

Storm Giants may not deal lethal Wounds to an honorable heroes who yield to them as supreme.

Thunder Stride whenever you can damage 3 or more heroes with it to make them split up. Use Lightning Spear on low HP heroes since it will still deal some damage even if Interposed.